The steam gauge, just before starting, showed a pressure of eighty-five pounds, a moderate figure for a locomotive Conductor A. B. Crawford sang out "All aboard!" and the special pulled out for St. Thomas at 5:27 P. M. A grand hurrah from the platform signaled the salutations of the gentlemen of the party, sat down, and dinner was served to him and his traveling companious upon a small table. No one noticed any particular motion in the car. There was no disarrangement of the dishes, crowded and small as was the table The hum of the train was somewhat sharper than usual, and the rushing air against the windows sounded like the sweeping of a ruinstorm. Otherwise there was no indication of unusual

THE CENTRE OF VITALITY.

The life of the flesh and the brain, the iones and the muscles, is the blood. It is the centre of vitality, the nutriment of the system. Not only must it be pure, but rich, in order to retain health. In the feeble and devitalized, the life current is watery and its circulation sluggish. The muscles of such persons lack solidity, the nerves are weak, the visage haggard, and who resides with his brother on North the eye lustroless. A course of Hostetter's Stemach Bitters, however, improves not only the health but the appearance of bedebilitated and nervous. Nutrition then becomes complete because digestion receives an impetus from this benignant tonic, which fertilizes the blood, brings back "the rose tint of health" to the wan check, brightness to the eye, and gives power of endurance to the muscle. Invalids hasten to use it!
